Futhorc Fun

Futhorc is the name given to the Anglo-Saxon version of an alphabet that was first used in the 1st Century A.D. It is also known as Elder Futhark, Younger Futhork and Gothic Runes.

A number of extra letters were added to the Runic alphabet to write Anglo-Saxon Futhorc. It is thought that Runes were probably brought to Britain in the 5th century by the Angles, Saxons, Jutes and Frisians and were used until about the 11th century.

Runic inscriptions can be found on jewellery, weapons, stones and other objects. There are very few examples of Runic writing on manuscripts that have survived.

There are six messages in the house and grounds for you to find and translate.

THE STONE MASONS CHALLENGE

A stonemason would make his mark on a piece of stone that he had cut, so that at the end of the day the man in charge would know how much to pay him. We have put twelve (12) masons marks around the grounds for you to find, the gold stars tell you nearly where they are but you will have to look closely. When you find one draw the shape in one of the boxes on the back of this sheet. There is one extra box for you to draw your own mark, make sure it is different or someone else might get paid for your work!

Make your mark in this box
